EDITORIAL WATCH

What the opinion pages argued: two or three lines each.

GS2 New Delhi scripts a post-US worldview

The New Delhi Declaration signifies a transformative shift in global dynamics, asserting a multipolar world that transcends Western dominance. BRICS stands against unilateral sanctions, branding them as coercive actions that undermine legitimacy. India's advocacy for UNSC reform further supports this newly conceived worldview, as BRICS actively engages with the shifting global landscape. This unified stance underscores the importance of sovereignty and dialogue while highlighting a move towards strategic autonomy.

GS2 Tighter US Visa isn't all that bad for India

Stricter visa regulations in foreign nations will intensify competition for India's skilled workforce. Additionally, numerous students are burdened with unmanageable debt due to the high costs of studying abroad. The imposition of job entry barriers in Western countries is hindering immigrant students, prompting universities to consider establishing more campuses overseas. As a result, India may see a reverse brain drain supported by the rise of global competency centers.
